prove the quality of meat production by better breeding, feeding and management practices. Two Centrally Sponsored Schemes viz; (i) improvement of the existing abattoiss/meat plants and (ii) investment in slaughter house corporations are being implemented to provide hygienic and wholesome meat.

(b) According to the recommendations of the Nutrition Advisory Committee of the Indian Council of Medical Research, the per capita requirement of milk is 220 grams per day. Thus the estimated milk requirement is 67 million tonnes in 1990-91.

(c) The future plans to enhance milk production to achieve the target production of 63 million tonnes of milk in 1994-95 are:—

(i) National Bull Production Programme for the supply of quality bulls for artificial insemination and natural service;

(ii) Operation Flood-III being implemented by National Dairy Development Board (NDDB);

(iii) Cross-breeding programme both within and outside Operation Flood areas;

(iv) Establishment of Central and State cattle breeding farms for producing and distributing superior bulls;

(v) Extension of frozen semen technology on a large scale;

(vi) Intensive cattle development projects and key village scheme within milk-shed areas;

(vii) Special livestock breeding programme for rearing-cross-bred heifers by small and marginal farmers and agricultural labourers; and

(viii) Technology transfer on all aspects of production of fodder through the Regional Stations for Forage Production and Demonstration.
